April 2007
Book Blurb™

Our feature this month is Mother To Son by Michigan resident, Kimberly Crouch. With May being the month we celebrate Mother's Day, it's fitting to set the stage by celebrating this easy to read, sensible, and succinct book for mothers in April.

As one reads the book, it is easy to discern the letter format used by the author. How touching that Kimberly chose to write some of her wisdom for her, now young son's. This gem of wisdom will be waiting for them when they are of the age of understanding. It is worth noting that the book is for mothers to use as they meet life's challenges. The book is dedicated to Kimberly's brother who was killed.

There are 11 chapters in the book. Each one deals with a different subject such as wealth, health, education, etc. Do you need inspiration every now and then? Well, each chapter has a bible verse that is very uplifting for the reader. Do you need a short story to help you through a turbulent period of your own? This book has a chapter for you. The book is rated G for Great Foundation. Please visit our catalogue to order a book.
